Check this box if you wish for the university supervisor to contact you
 It is also important that you notify the university supervisor by short e-mail message or voice mail if the student is having difficulties within the first two weeks of their placement. For example, a student might exhibit a lack initiative, a lack commitment to the teaching profession, and might be inconsistent in their attendance and punctuality. When notified, the supervisor will contact you, will meet with the student, and will make classroom visits as needed to correct the situation. We can and will remove a student from a placement if we are unable to make corrections my mid-semester. A student who is removed will have another opportunity for a practicum at a later date. In your judgment, if the student dresses inappropriately, please send him or her home and e-mail or call the university supervisor.
